

Some Americans have chosen to live completely off the grid, and produce their own electricity, mostly with solar power. Here, "Power to the People" host Johan Norberg visits one such community, Oregon's Three Rivers. Residents Dave and Elaine Budden tell Norberg they're still able to have everything a modern home needs.