

Another positive development in the drive to reduce emissions is taking place in the American trucking industry. Saddle Creek Logistics in Florida is converting its diesel fleet to one run by natural gas.